"The hardships have made me stronger."

Norezan Mohd Yusuf Mak, 33
Kidney patient at Pasir Ris Dialysis Centre
Our previous three patient gatherings saw 732 patients coming together to have a great time. Patients were also treated to a myriad of spectacular activities, ranging from magic shows, belly dancing to the screening of “Ah Boys to Men 2”. These gatherings provide a platform for everyone to bond, share their experience and spend their weekends meaningfully.

Striving On with Optimism and Resilience

Ms Norezan Mohd Yaaf Mok was born with a congenital disorder that caused her to have nephrotic syndrome when she was five years old. In 2006, she was diagnosed with kidney failure after giving birth to her daughter. Both her kidneys were subsequently removed to minimise complications and she had to undergo dialysis.

At that time, coping with being a single parent and kidney failure was not easy. She was often exhausted from taking care of her child and the after-effects of dialysis. She was also unable to seek employment and was financially strained. Her family and boyfriend were the important pillars of support that pulled her through this tough time.

Norezan is very grateful to her parents who continually give her strong social support and help her financially. She is also appreciative of the quality dialysis and care from NKF. She only pays $50 every month for her dialysis.

“I strive on because my parents have never given up on me”, said Norezan. Not only is she now gainfully employed as a school canteen attendant, she wedded her boyfriend who supported her during her most difficult time in her life. Her optimism and resilience enabled her to turn her life around.
